

ABOUT

Hello, my name is Stephen Kerr MD, I am a surgeon, and the inventor of the KARDSHARK, the most secure and durable cell phone wallet on the market. I purchased my first cell phone card holder over 3 years ago, but after a while the fabric loosened up and my cards kept slipping out. I kept asking, why doesn't someone make one of these things with a flap to keep the cards in place? I looked on Amazon and Google Shopping every other month or so, for over a year, but nobody was selling a cell phone wallet with a security flap to keep the cards from slipping out, so I ordered some neoprene from a local shop and made one myself. It took me about 2 hours to make, and it lasted over a year. I was hooked, so I made another one, just for myself, some improvements, that one lasted much longer, but still no commercially available product came on the market, so I decided to do it myself.

I filed for a patent to protect the idea, make it patent pending, then set about a more serious design round. Once I thought I was close, I took the idea to a company called Sewn Products Services. They took a lot of time and effort, but the end result has been amazing, I know this because I have one on my phone today and it works perfectly and looks great. I also gave one of the early prototypes to a friend at the hospital I work at, three weeks later I saw him and he was enthusiastic, "This thing is a life changer" he said, and it truly is.

I had an idea about the general design of the logo, then had a professional logo design artist bring it to life, acquired a Trademark, and the KardShark was born.

The KardShark mobile phone wallet is made of soft, flexible, and durable neoprene and comes with a 'life of your phone' replacement guarantee. The flexible neoprene material allows for up to 13 cards and even some cash to fit, and the security flap, with a secure Velcro closure, means your cards and cash are safe and secure, they will never slip out. I made the flap long and wide, for a number of different reasons. The wide flap hides what is inside, people cannot see your cards or your cash, It also presents a large surface to place a logo on. The long flexible flap allows you to slip your fingers underneath the flap, making one handed typing and dialing a breeze. The one handed operation also lets you take selfies easily without a selfie stick.

The KardShark is now available for online sale, and at selected specialty shops in the US. It comes in a variety of different neoprene colors, and a variety of logo colors, so you can mix and match for your own style.

The KardShark is also available as a commercial or promotional item. Companies can custom order their neoprene color, and put their company, school or team logo on it, to sell at college bookstores, team shops and even be given away as a promotional item at trade shows and conferences.

So ask yourself a few basic questions:

Who goes anywhere without their cell phone?

Why carry both a cell phone and a wallet?

I have not carried a wallet in over 3 years, and I don't miss it at all.

Get a KardShark and simplify your life.
